Do you invent applied AI technologies, innovate new products or services that use applied AI, or implement applied AI solutions? If so, join your fellow applied AI practitioners this October 22 in San Diego!

IntelliFest is a multi-track, non-profit, technical conference where software and IT developers, engineers, programmers, architects, and their managers can meet to learn about, to discuss, and to practice the state-of-the-art in reasoning technologies as they apply to creating intelligent products and services.

IntelliFest is all about inventing, innovating, and implementing AI solutions to difficult information technology problems. IntelliFest is also home to a virtual Community of Practice centered on Applied AI, bridging the gap between academia and industry and between management and development.
